What Ordinary Man

Minford, Ont., April 11 (CP)—In a little repair shop here a man with a pair of steel hands is working. He has worked with them for 20 years, ever since he and his blind father made them to replace hands and forearms of flesh and bone he lost as a boy when he hit against the whirling blades of a steam saw.

Andrew A. Cawley, "the man with the steel hands" was only 17 when a momentary slip cost him his hands. The accident was so bad that he was left blind. He has since learned to work with his steel hands. He has made many things, including a pair of steel hands for a man who had lost his hands in a similar accident.

J. Murray Gilchrist, author of a Canadian book on song, and a Canadian writer of books, presents in his latest volume, "Music of the North," a novel creation for music lovers.

He includes the songs of radio and gramophone to join in his game of finding suitable words to accompany well-known melodies by leading composers.

He demonstrates the method by sixteen examples from the Golden Age of Music, including selections from the works of Beethoven, Schubert, Chopin, Mozart, Bach, Handel, and others, in which he has written words.

The author credits those who maintain that certain responses belong to the realm of "absolute music," which require for its interest on construction and not on sentiment. He has written that the composers themselves were less wedded to the idea of "absolute music" than their modern interpreters.

"Music of the North" while offering a new form of amusement, coincides at the same time a store of information about the various composers among them the familiar "Tramway" of Schumann, "March Militant" of "March Militant" of Schubert and "March Militant" of Schubert.

4 Executives
Saved 28 per cent
on cleaning bills!

In 1932, four executives at Langley's found their cleaning and pressing accounts reduced by an average 28 per cent. In 1933, the same executives found their cleaning and pressing accounts reduced by an average 28 per cent. In 1934, the same executives found their cleaning and pressing accounts reduced by an average 28 per cent.

This new discovery puts into the fabric "staining" and "dressing". The water does the work. But all ordinary dry-cleaning removes that "body" and weight, making the garment limp and lifeless.

Besides giving full-bodied feel and lustre, looks to silk or wool, "re-texturing" shields against soils, stains and water spots. It makes dry-cleaning last longer, reduces pressing bills, makes garments give more wear and satisfaction.

This process of re-texturing and re-protecting fabrics is a Langley's patent.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Hiding Ugly Buildings

Many yards have ugly buildings that it is desirable to hide or remove. These buildings are often the result of poor planning and bad taste. They are often the result of the fact that the owner of the property has no idea of what a garden should be. They are often the result of the fact that the owner of the property has no idea of what a garden should be.

The best way to hide ugly buildings is to plant trees and shrubs around them. This will not only hide the buildings, but it will also make the garden look better. The best way to remove ugly buildings is to tear them down and replace them with something better. This will not only make the garden look better, but it will also make the property look better.

COLLEEN MOORE IN

"SOCIAL REBELS"

A cleverly written and handled satire on Park Avenue society, gorgeously mounted and a masterpiece of theatrical technique, "Social Rebels" is on view at the Capitol, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, under the management of Miss "Social Rebel" Moore. The movie makers were little friendly on the social atmosphere and with them, outside manager provides an evening of highly diverting entertainment at the blackboard expense.

King's Jubilee in Year 1935

LONDON, April 21.—(AP) today's coronation celebrations are provided in high quarters concerning the coronation of King George the Fifth.

The King's Jubilee is a fortnight next year. There is no modern tradition.

When Queen Victoria attained her 50th anniversary of taking the throne she had been crowned for 25 years. And the anniversary party was a very important one.

The coronation of London was marked by the King and Queen's visit to the city of London and the coronation party.

Who Needs Glasses

You probably need glasses if you have headaches often; if you cannot read for a few hours without your eyes aching; if, when reading or doing close work things become blurred or fuzzy; if you can not read street names; if you cannot recognize a person across the street; if strong light hurts your eyes. If you experience any of these complaints it is only the part of wisdom to have your eyes examined. And having your eyes examined here does not imply that you will be obliged to change lenses or begin wearing glasses. It only means being sure about the matter.

Roads and Road Signs

"To be so defective by another way than the one which is now in use," says the Ontario Highway Commission, "is to make the road a danger to the public."

"The first step in the improvement of the road is to make it a safe road," says the Ontario Highway Commission. "The second step is to make it a comfortable road. The third step is to make it a beautiful road."

'AN EYE TO THE FUTURE - AN EAR TO THE GROUND'

—this describes General Motors' policy, a policy by which the public is given what is usually in better cars year after year, and yet is safely protected against ill-directed or dubious experiments

NO-DRAFT VENTILATION
APPROVED BY CANADIANS
KNEE-ACTION WHEELS
APPROVED BY CANADIANS
STREAM-LINE DESIGN
APPROVED BY CANADIANS

Three in a Row!

How the well-dressed motor car will look is no longer an engineer's guess. The Canadian people are settling that question in a fashion no one can mistake. By their plain-spoken approval of the new General Motors cars, they have definitely set the vogue for streamlining of mature refinement. It would be foolish to deny our pleasure in meeting so accurately the public's taste, yet you realize, that credit belongs to the public also.

Our successful streamline designs did not leap full-grown into being; they are of deliberate growth, rather than abrupt inspiration. Years are behind them, years of stern work in laboratory and on proving grounds, a total of experience in automotive design and testing unmatched in the world. But months before any of our 1934 cars were built, the soundness of our designings proved priceless advance verification from the public itself. The answers of more than 60,000 motorists to our Customer Questionnaires—suggesting changes here and improvements there—told our engineering department just about what people wanted. And we can cite Knee-Action Wheels, No-Draft Ventilation, Stream-Line Designs as triumphs "three-in-a-row"—because our will to progress is linked with willingness to listen to the people's own desires.
